In this session, Dr. Stec will describe what equity looks like in higher education classrooms. Understanding how, through the pedagogical concepts of alternative assessment and differentiated instruction, faculty can improve the retention of didactic and clinical learning. We will explore several examples of how to innovate teaching focusing on digital whiteboarding, virtual workbooks, and student created content. As an Apple Distinguished Educator and faculty member deeply committed to ensuring student success, Dr. Stec hopes to provide each participant with a different way to see their classroom and the opportunities it holds for learning.
